NIAGARA CAMP IS NOW A BUSY PLACE, CAMP OPENS ON MAY

Old Mud Roads have all been Rebuilt by the Engineers New Freight Sheds and other Improvements made

SUNDAY TRAINS

It is believed that some of the Battalions will "hike" through from Toronto—Hotel Men Enlarging their Premises

Niagara camp is to open two weeks from Monday but there is considerable preparation work yet to be done by the engineers corps who are getting things in shape for the troops when they arrive. The engineers corps are working hard on roadmak-ing, etc., and everything possible is being done looking to a better, more efficient and convenient camp this year than ever.

Lieutenant J. S. McMurray, of the Engineers Corps, is in charge of the work and he has 130 men and four officers under him. The principal work which has been going on for the past few weeks, ever since the engineers arrived, is roadmaking.

In past years the work at Niagara Camp has been handicapped by reason of the bad roads on the camp grounds. They were nothing more than by paths in rainy weather, it was very hard for the transports, both motor and horse driven to get through the mud.

A new freight shed has been built at the westerly end of the camp grounds and there all the supplies for the camp will be taken. At present the building which is as big as a railway freight shed in a good sized city, is being used as a bunk house and living quarters by the engineers. It was very fortunate that they had this building because of the cold wet weather of late. In a few days the engineers will vacate the building and go into tents and get the building ready for the purpose for which it was built.

Real, permanent roadmaking is going on, not the heavy macadam, but with a thin coating of cut stone which will be sufficient for the camp purposes during the summer. Oil will be spread over the roads to keep down dust. Huge quantities of cut stone has been brought to the camp ground on freight cars.

The engineers have this year undertaken another permanent improvement feature for the camp. Formerly the waterworks system was not very satisfactory, the mains forming a dead end, which militated against the quality and supply of the water. The engineers are now about to lay a new 4 inch water main so as to obviate the disadvantages formerly experienced. The water supply for the camp comes from the town system.

It is believed here that some of the battalions at least will trek from Toronto and other places where they wintered, to Niagara, as the great trek of last autumn when the camp broke up, proved highly satisfactory in the way of training the troops in forced marches. It is understood that the batteries will trek to Petawawa from Toronto.

Unlike the hotels in some other parts of Ontario, whose proprietors threaten to close up shop when prohibition comes, the Niagara hostellers will make the very best use of their opportunities for entertaining the travelling public. Some of them are enlarging their premises for they expect a big summer here.

The Niagara hotel men have only two more weeks to sell booze, for they have been ordered to close up their bars two weeks from to-day and keep them shut in so far as strong drink enter into the arrangement, for the next three and a half years. Of course they'll sell proxy beer, two and a half per cent. alcohol and no doubt will do a rushing business in that line.

The roads leading to Niagara are drying up well and are getting into good shape for travel. Already good many of the summer cottages are occupied, some Toronto and Buffalo people being here. On account of the high prices being asked for cottages, some as high as $150 a month, some of the regular summer residents will spend only part of the summer here, and some owners have rented their cottages to others and will spend the summer somewhere else.

A St. Catharines lady is authority for the statement that there is not a single cottage now to be had, as she has made every effort to get one without success.

Arrangements have been made by the Michigan Central to run Sunday trains from Niagara Falls to Niagara this year.

ABINGDON WOMEN'S SOCIETY

Red Cross Work

The Abingdon Women's Society was organized in April, 1915, for the purpose of doing Red Cross Work.
The following report for year April 1915-16 shows that the women of Abingdon are patriotic, and proving it in the most practical way. There are 16 paid up members, and others who have helped most generously.
They have made and contributed together, $164 cash, which has been devoted to Hamilton Branch of Red Cross Society. They have also received 11 County of Lincoln Grants of $25.00 each, which was also donated to Hamilton, from which they received their supply of work.

Their enthusiasm is by no means cooled by faithful labor, as during the last three months they have returned more work than in the previous nine months, and trust that those who read this report will be encouraged to greater efforts on behalf of our brave soldiers, who are doing so much, and in many cases, giving their lives for us.

They have cut and made into garments, 32 webs of goods, of which 15 were used the first nine months and 17 the last three months. Garments made—228 Hospital shirts, 83 pyjama suits (166 garments), 110 Bed Jackets, 13 day shirts, 22 sheets, 48 pillow slips, 144 rest pads, 61 bandages, 1200 mouth wipes, 6 pillows, 6 quilts; also 180 pairs of socks, 112 pairs of knits in the last six months, besides 9 khaki mufflers and 20 face cloths, all of which have been returned to Hamilton Red Cross Branch, together with 20 large rolls of old linen.

The Society gladly hand out work to those desiring it.

NEWS of THE COUNTY AND DISTRICT AS CULLED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

Welland's Tax rate for 1916 is 30 Mills.

St. Catharines celebrates its Por-tenth Anniversary as a city, on Monday.

Steamer Averill does $2,000 damage to locks on Welland Canal, by jamming them.

Mr. Andrew Liddell, formerly of Beamsville, a well known and highly respected citizen passed away Friday morning at his home, 121 King St., St.
Catharines. He deceased a wife.

widower and was in his 81st year. He leaves one sister, Mrs. Babcock, to mourn his demise. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon to Pensance cemetery.

What will become of the hotels in St. Catharines when prohibition goes into effect is a question which many curious persons are asking. So far as The Journal can learn some of them will be turned into stores and business houses. Two or three are on the market for sale, it is learned, but if not sold will be cut up for retail and other purposes. Mr. John Quinn, of the Russell House, which is one of the most valuable real estate properties in St. Catharines, has in mind the conversion of his property into fine store elites. Being situated at the corner of James and St. Paul streets, he figures that he could make three and possibly four splendid stores and this is what he will probably do in the near future.

Ford Touring Car Price $530

If you stayed indoors all winter—you might not need your Ford till "new grass" time. But in the wide "out-of-doors" the Ford serves as well in January as in June. It's the all-year-round car with a reputation for service and economy that isn't affected by the season.

The Runabout is now $480; the Town Car $780; f.o.b.
Ford, Ontario. All cars completely equipped, including electric headlights. Equipment does not include speedometer. Get particulars from

Col. Bro... G. E. SMITH & SON, Dealers Grimsby, Ont.

GRIMSBY has a Lord Roberts of its own now. Sergt.-Cook Samuel Seaman, whose silky grey whiskers have been seen upon our streets for years, is our Lord Roberts. Samuel is going Overseas with the 98th and one day last week turned up at the Barracks minus his whiskers. A man has to look at him twice now to see if it really is Seaman, because he is the dead split of "Bobs."

The married men of "B" Co. went down to ignominious defeat at the hands of the single boys playing football, on Monday night. Timothy J. Farrell, the World's Greatest Single-handed Transport Driver was responsible for the married mens defeat.
Tim was goal-tender for the "Dou-blers" and every time the ball came his way he jumped the other way and let it go in. Paddy Williamson says "If a farmer drove a load of hay through the goal, Tim would be too slow to even get a handful of it."

A fast and exciting game of football was played on the school grounds on Saturday afternoon when the "B" Co. team defeated the crack team of the 120th Batt. from Hamilton by a score of 2-1.

Paddy Williamson the "Inimitable
"Cockney-Cork" comedian of "B" Co. came down from the football field the other night with his nose skinned up for fair Paddy says he went to stop the ball and the ball stopped him, you know says Paddy "Ever time I get in a fight my nose gets there first? It's no wonder it does for Paddy is the first son of Cork we ever seen with a Jew Probscia."

The GRIMSBY soldiers played a team from the Beamsville Post at Football, on Tuesday night and trimmed the Easterners up to the tune of 2-0. Sergt.-Major Watkins was the referee. As a referee the Sergt.-Major is a success as a soldier.

There are over one thousand named varieties of potatoes in North America fully four hundred have been are quite inferior, even though they have been extravagantly advertised; some are old varieties under new

tion and NADA'S CAL RVICE AT HOME

The Empire needs food. If you are not in the fighting line you may be in the producing line. Labour is limited—all the more reason to do more than ever who are fighting for you. The Allies need all the food that helps. You are responsible for your own work. If you would like, produce all you can. Work with the right to your effort and produce now when it counts. The more you save. Producing and saving are war-service.

Make Your Labour Efficient

In war-time do not waste time and energy on unimportant and unprofitable work. Economize labour.
Put off unproductive work till after the war, and, if possible, help in producing something needed now. Let us not waste labour. Canada needs it all. If possible help to feed the Allies. Make your backyard a productive garden.
Cultivate it with a will. Make your labour count for as much as possible.

Do Not Waste Materials

There should be no waste in war-time. Canada could pay the annual interest on her war expenditure out of what we waste on our farms, in our factories, in our homes. Every pound of food saved from waste is as good as a pound of increased production. The way for a nation to save is for every individual to save. France is strong to-day because of thrift in time of peace. The men and women of Great Britain are not only "doing" but are learning to "do without."

Spend Your Money Wisely

Practise economy in the home by eliminating luxuries. Wasting our dollars here weakens our strength at the front. Your savings will help Canada to finance the war. Save your money for the next Dominion War issue. There can be no better investment.

THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA

THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

THE DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

There are thousands of families in villages and towns that can keep a small flock at very little expense, thereby serving their own table and helping to increase the exports. Even with eggs we can help finance the war. Meat prices are advancing and the cost of living every day will be a great deal for the home table. Perhaps, in addition, you can put away half a dozen for use next Fall and Winter.

WATCH OUT FOR CUTWORM, MR. FARMER

There have been many complaints recently concerning injuries to alfalfa, sweet clover and grains. In some instances the injury was supposed to be due to army worms, but probably in every case the insect doing the damage was the common native cut-worm of the Western States.

This insect is particularly abundant in alfalfa and native sod during the winter and early spring. When food is not sufficient for the worms they sometimes take on a migrating habit which has led to their being considered an army worm.

The adult insect that deposits the eggs that produce these worms is the familiar dark-colored moth or millar that frequents our dwellings during the months of May and June, where it accumulates upon the windows and about the lamps. The eggs are deposited by these moths almost entirely upon green vegetation, where they hatch, and the worms are usually about half grown when cold weather comes on. They then hiber-nate and come from their over-winter quarters in the early spring to attack the earliest vegetation that starts in the fields.

Remedies

Where these worms are very abundant, especially wherever they take the migrating habit, they may be destroyed in great numbers by the use of the arsenic bran-mash preparation such as is used for the destruction of grasshoppers. It is prepared in the following proportions:—

Paris green.....	3 lbs.
Bran.....	50 lbs.
Cheap Syrup.....	4 qts.
Lemons or Oranges.....	10

Mix the Paris green and bran together while dry; dissolve the syrup in the water; squeeze the lemons into this and finely chop the peel and pulp and add them also; pour this mixture into the bran and Paris green, and stir so as to dampen the mash thoroughly. The lemons may be prepared by putting them through a meat grinder. Distribute the mixture broadcast in as fine particles as possible where the cutworms are most abundant.
The application should be made toward evening or early (between 4 and 7 o'clock) in the morning. From 3 to 5 pounds of dry bran is usually sufficient for an acre of land, when used against grasshoppers. Never distribute in little piles. For cutworms, distribute more freely just ahead of the line where damage is most apparent.—C. P. Gillett, Colorado Agricultural college, Fort Collins, Colo.

NEWS of THE COUNTY AND DISTRICT

AS CULLED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

Welland's Tax rate for 1916 is 30 Mills.

St. Catharines celebrates its Fortieth Anniversary as a city, on Monday.

Steamer Averill does $2,000 damage to locks on Welland Canal, by jamming them.

Mr. Andrew Liddell, formerly of Beamsville, a well known and highly respected citizen passed away Friday morning at his home, 121 King St., St. Catharines. The deceased was widower and was in his 81st year. He leaves one sister, Mrs. Babcock, to mourn his demise. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon to Beamsville cemetery.

What will become of the hotels in St. Catharines when prohibition goes into effect is a question which many curious persons are asking. So far as The Journal can learn some of them will be turned into stores and business houses. Two or three are on the market for sale, it is learned, but if not sold will be cut up for retail and their purposes. Mr. John Quinn, of the Russell House, which is one of the most valuable real estate properties in St. Catharines, has in mind the conversion of his property into fine store cities. Being situated at the corner of James and St. Paul streets, he figures that he could make three and possibly four splendid stores and this is what he will probably do in the near future.

The annual Martin 19 mile road Race will be held in St. Catharines, on May 24th.

The ladies of St. Catharines and district are busily engaged raising money for the erection of a Rest House for the soldiers at Niagara Camp.

The estate of the late James Kerr Osborne, formerly of Beamsville, Vice-president of the Massey Harris Co., valued at $402,983 has been filed in the surrogate court for probate. He died on January 14th, 1916, at Bournemouth, England, and the will is dated May 4th, 1915.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Andrew Liddell took place Sunday afternoon, in St. Catharines. Rev. Dr. Ratcliffe conducted the services. Charles Case, George Danley, D. L. Cruickshank, Harry Henry, M. Glackin and A. H. Trappell acted as bearers in the city. The interment took place at Mount Osborne cemetery, Beamsville. On arrival of the cortege at Beamsville, Mount Ivy Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of which deceased was a member, acted as an escort through the village to the cemetery. Worshipful Brothers W. P. Vidd, George Kerr, and John Ritchie read the Masonic service, assisted by Bro. W. H. H. as chaplain. Rev. A. A. Lamb conducted the religious services at the grave side. Wor. Bro. John Ritchie and Bros. William Zimmerman, Hugh Sinclair, Thomas Wood, Joseph Grubb and John Gibson acted as bearers.

Dear Sirs,

We have used Brandram's B. B. Genuine White Lead—after a careful test of all other white leads—both foreign and domestic—and we use it exclusively in our work. For the essential quality of body—opacity and spreading evenly—securing uniform results by liquid vehicles—retaining its colour—it has reached a point where nothing better could be made.

Yours, faithfully,

THE FORESTERS DAUGHTER

Copyright, 1914, by Hamilton Garland

CHAPTER X.

Further Perplexities.
PERCEIVING Wayland's returning weakness, Berrie insisted on his lying down again while she set to work preparing dinner. "There is no telling when father will get here," she said. "And Tony will be hungry when he comes. Lie down and rest."

He obeyed her silently and, going to the bunk, at once fell asleep. How long he slept he could not tell, but he was awakened by the voice of the ranger, who was standing in the doorway and regarding Berrie with a round eyed stare.

He was a tall, awkward fellow of about thirty-five, plainly of the frontier type, but a man of intelligence. At the end of a brief explanation Berrie said, with an air of authority: "Now you'd better ride up the trail and bring our camp outfit down. We can't go back that way anyhow."

The ranger glanced toward Wayland. "All right, Miss Berrie, but perhaps your tenderfoot needs a doctor."

Wayland rose painfully, but resolutely. "Oh, no, I am not sick. I'm a little turned a comical glance upon her. "Am I hungry? Sister, I am a wolf. Norcross, take my horses down to the pasture."

She hastened to interpose. "Let me do that, daddy. Mr. Norcross is badly used up. You see, we started down here late yesterday afternoon. It was raining and horribly muddy, and I took the wrong trail. The darkness caught us, and we didn't reach the station till nearly midnight."

Wayland acknowledged his weakness. "I guess I made a mistake, supervisor; I'm not fitted for this strenuous life."

McFarlane was quick to understand. "I didn't intend to pitchfork you into the forest life quite so suddenly," he said. "Don't give up yet, however. You'll harden to it."

"Here comes Tony," said Berrie. "He'll look after the ponies." Nevertheless Wayland went out, believing that Berrie wished to be alone with her father for a short time. As he took his seat McFarlane said: "You stayed in camp till yesterday afternoon, did you?"

"Yes, we were expecting you every moment."

He saw nothing in this to remark upon. "Did it snow at the lake?" "Yes, a little; it mostly rained."

"It stormed up on the divide like a January blizzard. When did Moore and his party arrive?" "About 10 o'clock this morning."

"I'll ride right up and see them. What about the outfit? That's at the lake, I reckon?"

"Yes, I was just sending Tony after it. But, father, if you go up to Moore's camp don't say too much about what has happened. Don't tell them just when you took the back trail and just how long Wayland and I were in camp."

"Why not?" She reddened with confusion. "Because—You know what an old gossip Mrs. Belden is. I don't want her to know. She's an awful talker, and our being together up there all that time will give her a chance."

A light broke in on the supervisor's brain. In the midst of his preoccupation as a forester he suddenly became the father. His eyes narrowed and his face darkened. "That's so. The old rip could make a whole lot of capital out of your being left in camp that way. At the same time I don't believe in dodging. The worst thing we could do would be to try to blind the trail. Was Tony here last night when you came?"

"No; he was down the valley after his mail."

His face darkened again. "That's another piece of bad luck too. How much does the old woman know at present?"

"Nothing at all." "Didn't she cross examine you?" "Sure she did, but Wayland side tracked her. Of course it only delays things. She'll know all about it sooner or later. She's great at putting two and two together. Two and two with her always make five."

McFarlane mused. "Cliff will be plumb crazy if she gets his ear drut."

"I don't care anything about Cliff, daddy. I don't care what he thinks or does if he will only let Wayland alone."

"See here, daughter, you do seem to be terribly interested in this tourist."

"He's the finest man I ever knew, father."

He looked at her with tender, trusting glance. "He isn't your kind, daughter. He's a nice clean boy, but he's different. He don't belong in our world. He's only just stopping here. Don't forget that."

"I'm not forgetting that, daddy. I know he's different. That's why I like him." After a pause she added: "Nobody could have been nicer all through these days than he has been. He was like a brother."

McFarlane fixed a keen glance upon her. "Has he said anything to you? Did you come to an understanding?" Her eyes fell. "Not the way you mean, daddy, but I think he—likes me. But do you know who he is? He's the son of W. W. Norcross, that big Michigan lumberman."

McFarlane started. "How do you know that?"

"Mr. Moore asked him if he was any relation to W. W. Norcross, and he said, 'Yes, a son.' You should have seen how that Moore girl changed her tune the moment he admitted that. She'd been very free with him up to that time. But when she found out he was a rich man's son she became as quiet and innocent as a kitten. I hate her! She's a deceitful animal!"

AFTER SIX YEARS OF SUFFERING

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbus, Ohio.—"I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 175 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and it did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life."

Mrs. J. S. BARLOW, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains just the virtues of roots and herbs needed to restore health and strength to the weakened organs of the body. That is why Mrs. Barlow, a chronic invalid, recovered so completely. It pays for women suffering from any female ailments to insist upon having Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Well, now, daughter, that being the case, it's all the more certain that he don't belong to our world, and you mustn't fix your mind on keeping him here."

"A girl can't help fixing her mind, daddy."

"Or changing it." He smiled a little. "You used to like Cliff. You liked him well enough to promise to marry him."

"I know I did. But I despise him now."

"Poor Cliff! But the thing we've got to guard against is old lady Belden's tongue. She and that Belden gang have it in for me, and all that has kept them from open war has been Cliff's relationship to you. They'll take a keen delight in making the worst of all this camping business."

McFarlane was now very grave. "I wish your mother was here this minute. I guess we had better cut out this timber cruise and go right back."

"No, you mustn't do that. That would only make more talk. Go on with your plans. I'll stay here with you. It won't take you but a couple of days to do the work, and Wayland needs the rest."

"But suppose Cliff hears of this business between you and Norcross and comes galloping over the ridge?"

"Well, let him. He has no claim on me."

He rose uneasily. "It's all mighty risky business, and it's my fault. I should never have permitted you to start on this trip."

"Don't you worry about me, daddy. I'll pull through somehow. Anybody that knows me will understand how little there is in—in old lady Belden's gab. I've had a beautiful trip, and I won't let her nor anybody else spoil it for me."

Wayland was down on the bridge leaning over the rail listening to the song of the water.

McFarlane approached gravely, but when he spoke it was in his usual soft monotone. "Mr. Norcross," he began, with candid infection, "I am very sorry to say it, but I wish you and my daughter had never started on this trip."

"I know what you mean, supervisor, and I feel as you do about it. Of course none of us foresaw any such complication as this, but now that we are snarled up in it we'll have to make the best of it. No one of us is to blame. It was all accidental."

The youth's frank words and his sympathetic voice disarmed McFarlane completely. Even the slight resentment he felt melted away. "It's no use saying 'if,'" he remarked at length. "What we've got to meet is Seth Belden's report—Berrie has cut loose from Cliff, and he's red headed already. When he drops on to this story, when he learns that I had to chase back after the horses and that you and Berrie were alone together for three days, he'll have a fine club to swing, and he'll swing it, and Alec will help him. They're all waiting a chance to get me, and they're mean enough to get me through my girl."

"What can I do?" asked Wayland. McFarlane pondered. "I'll try to head off Marm Belden and I'll have a talk with Moore. He's a pretty reasonable chap."

"But you forget there's another tale bearer. Moore's daughter is with them."

"That's so. I'd forgotten her. Good Lord, we are in for it! There's no use trying to cover anything up."

Here was the place for Norcross to speak up and say, "Never mind, I'm going to ask Berrie to be my wife." But he couldn't do it. Something rose in his throat which prevented speech. A strange repugnance, a kind of sudden resentment at being forced into a declaration kept him silent, and McFarlane, disappointed, wondering and hurt, kept silence also.

Norcross was the first to speak. "Of course those who know your daughter will not listen for an instant to the story of an unclean old thing like Mrs. Belden."

"I'm not so sure about that," replied the father, gloomily. "People always listen to such stories, and a girl always gets the worst of a situation like this. Berrie's been brought up to take care of herself, and she's kept clear of criticism so far, but with Cliff on edge and this old rip snooping around—His mind suddenly changed. 'Your being the son of a rich man won't help any. Why didn't you tell me who you were?'"

"I didn't think it necessary. What difference does it make? I have nothing to do with my father's business. His notions of forest speculation are not mine."

"It would have made a difference with me, and it might have made a difference with Berrie. She mightn't have been so free with you at the start if she'd known who you were. You looked sick and kind of lonesome, and that worked on her sympathy."

"I was sick and I was lonesome, and she has been very sweet and lovely to me, and it breaks my heart to think that her kindness and your friendship should bring all this trouble and suspicion upon her. Let's go up to the Moore camp and have it out with them. I'll make any statement you think best."

"I reckon the less said about it the better," responded the older man. "I'm going up to the camp, but not to talk about my daughter."

"How can you help it? They'll force the topic."

"If they do I'll force them to let it alone," retorted McFarlane, but he went away disappointed and sorrowful.

When the supervisor returned from the camp something in his manner revealed the fact that the situation had not improved.

"They forced me into a corner," he said peevishly. "I lied out of one night, but they know that you were here last night. Of course they were respectful enough so long as I had an eye on them, but their tongues are wagging now."

As bedtime drew near Settle took a blanket and went to the corral, and Berrie insisted that her father and Wayland occupy the bunk.

Norcross protested, but the supervisor said: "Let her alone. She's better able to sleep on the floor than either of us."

This was perfectly true; but, in spite of his bruised and aching body, the youth would gladly have taken her place beside the stove. It seemed pitifully unjust that she should have this physical hardship in addition to her uneasiness of mind.

Berrie suffered a restless night, the most painful and broken she had known in all her life. She acknowledged that Siona Moore was prettier and that she stood more nearly on Wayland's plane than herself, but the realization of this fact did not bring surrender. She was not of that temper. All her life she had been called upon to combat the elements, to hold her own amid rude men and inconsiderate women, and she had no intention of yielding her place to a pert coquette, no matter what the gossip might say.

"She shall not have her way with Wayland," she decided. "I know what she wants—she wants him at her side tomorrow. But I will not have it so. She is trying to get him away from me."

The more she dwelt on this the hotter her jealous fever burned. The floor on which she lay was full of knots. She could not lose herself in sleep, tired as she was. The planks no longer turned their soft spots to her flesh, and she rolled from side to side in torment.

Her plan of action was simple. "I shall go home tomorrow and take Wayland with me. I will not have him going with that girl; that's settled."

The hard trip of the day before had seemingly done him no permanent injury. On the contrary, a few hours' rest had almost restored him to his normal self. "Tomorrow he will be able to ride again." And this thought reconciled her to her hard bed. She did not look beyond the long, delicious day which they must spend in returning to the Springs.

She fell asleep at last and was awakened only by her father tucking about the stove.

Fishing is given first place in the April issue of Rod and Gun, the majority of the stories in this early spring number dealing with a subject which at this time of the year makes a special appeal to the outdoorsman. Besides the stories in which fishing plays a prominent part, and other stories in which fishing does not occur, the department edited by Robert Page Lincoln under the heading "Fishing notes," contains much that is of practical value to the angler, among the articles being one on "The Trail of the Angling Canoeist," Guns and Ammunition, edited by A. B. Gelke, is replete with information for the gun crank or enthusiast. "The Trap" contains the latest records of trap-shooting events and some reminiscences of a well known Toronto shooter, "Johnny Townsend," while under the heading of the Kennel there is much to interest dog lovers, the Airedale being the subject

WHY WE SHOULD SAVE AND HOW

A pamphlet has been issued by the Parliamentary War Savings Committee in Britain entitled "Why We Must Save and How." As it is intended to illustrate the possibilities of saving by all classes there are necessarily many hints calculated to be of value to the world over and especially in allied countries. In the first place it combats the notion that those people who spend all they make are necessarily benefitting trade. On the contrary those who save wisely advance themselves, their neighbours and their country. Spending money on luxury gives a certain amount of employment, but nothing like the employment that investment in desirable and necessary articles does. The best way to convey the message in this useful and timely pamphlet would seem to be to summarize its contents in brief, emphatic sentences, as follows:

Thrift is a national duty, so that the money thus saved may be invested with the government.

The more goods we buy at home and the more we make and send abroad the richer the country becomes.

Every dollar borrowed abroad that might be obtained at home means money going out of the country.

By devoting all our energies to producing things useful and abandoning the purely ornamental and the luxurious we are helping the country.

The only money judiciously spent is that which keeps ourselves in health of mind and body and that by investment in productive enterprises helps in the progress of the land and the country.

Women are the main power in the campaign for thrift. As leaders of the home they can best foster economy in food and clothing.

Reduction in meat-eating might be generally practised without loss of strength.

Cheese is one of the best and most wholesome substitutes for meat.

Economy and good digestion are aided by never eating bread that is not at least 24 hours old. Ten per cent of the cost of bread would be saved by rigidly adhering to this simple practice.

Fewer courses at dinner would not mean any wearing on the health, but less work and more saving.

It is in dress that women could best economize. Simplicity of material does not mean less attractiveness.

Excessive expenditure on weddings and funerals should be avoided.

Labour released from the manufacture and sale of things that can be dispensed with is available for other and more useful work.

Expenditure on golf, tennis and other games of pleasure could be beneficially curtailed.

The giving of presents on all trivial occasions is to be discouraged and when given, they should be of an inexpensive and useful character.

Presents and gifts might take the form of war-loan vouchers.

Much money might be saved by spending less on hobbies.

Neighbours could benefit each other systematically combining to buy food in quantities and sharing it.

Economy today means riches in the future.

The only luxury the Empire can afford is victory.

FARM LABORERS WANTED

The Western Provinces of Canada are now experiencing an acute shortage of Farm Laborers for Spring and Summer work, which makes steady work and good wages a certainty.

Saskatchewan has called for five thousand Laborers, and an equal number is required in Manitoba and Alberta.

After a thorough canvass of the Territory served by the Canadian Northern Rly. it was found that an average of 27 men is required at the points from which returns were received. An average wage of $45.00 per month, including board is being paid, the highest being $50.00 per day.

For further particulars as to the men required and the wages being paid at the various points, apply to W. R. Calder, Agent, or write R. L. Fairbairn, General Passenger Agent, 68 King St. E., Toronto.

MAUD S. AND DAN PATCH

Names to conjure with amongst lovers of horsemanship were Maud S. and the famous Dan. They were the outcome of patient training grafted on sterling qualities of form and endurance; they were developed in speed and staying power when some evidence of their excellence had been discovered.

In the dairy world many names of excellent cows are emblazoned in history. They have made astounding records in the hands of careful feeders who discovered their great capacity.

Note two points; first, although many good records are now known, the possibilities of such yields of milk and fat were, in many cases, totally undreamed of even by the men who at one time owned such magnificent cows; second, what has added to the value of the world's record breakers is the very fact that simple, cold arithmetic has been used to calculate the milk and fat production.

Some system of dairy records, then, has helped this discovery of the powers of Maud S. and Dan; records are helping dairymen today to discriminate intelligently between the plodding utility cow and the high speed, long-endurance cow. A note to the dairy division, Ottawa, will bring any reader, without cost, sample record forms, the keeping of which will prove a useful eyeopener to increase your income.

No, you mustn't do that. The would only make more talk. Go on with your plans. I'll stay here with you. It won't take you but a couple of days to do the work, and Wayland needs the rest.

"But suppose Cliff hears of this business between you and Norcross and comes galloping over the ridge?"

"Well, let him. He has no claim on me."

"Don't you worry about me, daddy. I'll pull through somehow. Anybody that knows me will understand how little there is in--in old lady Belden's gab. I've had a beautiful trip, and I won't let her nor anybody else spoil it for me."

Wayland was down on the bridge leaning over the rail listening to the song of the water.

McFarlane approached gravely, but when he spoke it was in his usual soft monotone. "Mr. Norcross," he began, with candid infection, "I am very sorry to say it, but I wish you and my daughter had never started on this trip."

"I know what you mean, supervisor, and I feel as you do about it. Of course none of us foresaw any such complication as this, but now that we are started up in it we'll have to make the best of it. No one of us is to blame. It was all accidental."

The youth's frank words and his sympathetic voice disarmed McFarlane completely. Even the slight re-
